The British National Socialist Movement is committed to totally changing the political, social and economic system in the UK. There can be no other answer to the corrupt and ramshackle system which now attempts to control this nation and drags the population of these islands into ever deepening distress. There cannot be any attempt to repair or revive the current system, it has failed and must be replaced totally. The so-called democratic, constitutional monarchy government by Parliament has run its course. The political parties currently vying for control of the House of Commons (and House of Lords) has successively ruined this nation in just over a century. Their policies and ideology are all rooted in a financial and economical network which has created the problems we now all face. The major political parties are all trying to rework a discredited and failed system which will again fail, theirs is a house built on sand.

The only answer to our Nation's future is to look forward, not backwards. We must ditch the existing political system in its entirety and replace the "Old Corruption" of Westminster with a radical and new ideology built on the principals of Race and Nation, Blood and Soil, Family and Folk. National Socialism is rooted in nature and the ancient principals of lore. The greed for economical gain and the grubbing of international finance will no longer steer our national and international policies. Our people and our folk communities will come first. National Socialism will build Britain to greatness and our example will rekindle a new Renaissance in Europe as each of Europe's Nations follows suit. But this cannot happen as long as our people prop up the rotting carcass of the present political and economical framework.

The British National Socialist Movement looks towards a future without the stranglehold of international finance, without the internal stranglehold of class privilege and Masonic double-dealing. The future must see the reduction in our nation population by the expulsion of all those who are not of our race or who have abandoned their racial identity by racial intermarriage and miscegenation. The future must be built on National Socialist ideology in all things, false diversions of religion and class must be swept aside as the Folk Community takes shape. National Socialism in the only way forward, it is the future.

We work now to build the future, to reject the society built on the mistakes of the past, we build the foundations of a New Order, brick by brick, family by family.

TOMORROW BELONGS TO US!!

Radical solutions to the Nation's ills.

THE VOICE OF NATIONAL SOCIALIST RESISTANCE

As National Socialists we must seriously commit ourselves to building a total alternative to the society around us.

We must create our own annual calendar of events rooted in our own national and ancestral traditions and in the historical and political traditions of the National Socialist Movement. We can establish a regular, cycle of events and rituals marking the significant points in our ideological and cultural year. This in itself will create an alternative to the year offered by the multi-culturalists and will hopefully open up opportunities for locally based activities centred around family celebrations in an NS context.

The Blood and Honour music organisation has begun this change in attitude and approach by the creation of a 'politically alternative music scene' and alternative calendar with the ISD Memorial weekend and "White Christmas" gigs.

National Socialist Defiance.

Just because we have to live under their rules on racial equality and multi-culturalism does not mean that we have to accept them or believe in them. As National Socialists we totally reject the false doctrines of multi-culturalism and a multi-racial society in Britain. At every opportunity we will undermine those false concepts and challenge them.

We are preparing the ground for major political and social change, those people in positions of authority in present day Britain who think that the political pendulum is forever going to swing to the Left are seriously mistaken. By creating a positive National Socialist alternative to the present 'established order' we are opening the door to all age groups and social backgrounds amongst the indigenous British population, who are searching for an escape from a multi-racial future.

MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS

"This is a secret war, the police don't want to know because they see it as a black-on-black thing. But we cannot take much more of these attacks. If nothing is done there will be a race riot and things will get very nasty. It will not be pretty."

Quote from Moses Whyte, Afro-Caribbean community worker in Walsall, West Midlands and former Labour councillor, speaking to a national newspaper about the rising level of racial attacks on the Black community in Walsall by Asian gangs, mostly second generation Pakistani Muslims.

The Afro-Caribbean population in Walsall is around 4,500 strong – the Asian population is over 20,000 strong – the violence against the community of West Indian descent is growing in intensity but Asian community leaders refuse to accept a problem exists.

"You try to fight back but they always outnumber the people they attack. It's always 10 against one or 15 against two." Quote from an 18 year old Black teenager.

In November 2003, Black journalist and broadcaster Darcus Howe, a champion of racial equality, was called into Walsall to make a programme about the town and its ethnic mix. While researching on the streets of Walsall, Howe admits he was surrounded by a gang of Asian youths and threatened with violence, "They told me of their violent hostility to West Indians and threatened to break my legs, Pakistani nationalism is their stock in trade."

Elsewhere in Walsall Leroy McCoy, another Afro-Caribbean community worker offered further evidence of the ethnic tensions in the area, he told reporters that, "The Pakistani problem has increased since the al-Qaeda terrorist attack on the USA. They have definitely become more aggressive, more nationalistic since then."

That nationalism – not for Britain – but for Pakistan was reportedly evident at the celebrations for the end of the Muslim festival of Eid, when gangs of Asian youths drove cars around the centre of Walsall waving large Pakistani flags.

Although the situation reported here is focussed on just one small town in the West Midlands, the same story is repeated in other towns throughout Britain. Inter-racial strife between immigrant communities is just another symptom of the breakdown of multi-racial Britain.

MULTI-CULTURALISM DOES NOT WORK!

MULTICULTURALISM THE EXPERIMENT THAT FAILED.

A multi-racial, multi-cultural society built on the ruins of post-1945 Britain was the pipe-dream of the 1960's liberals, Left-wing social engineers and policy makers.

The harsh reality of ethnic tensions, racial conflict and culturally divided Britain in the first decade of the 21st Century is the living proof that the socialist idyll has failed miserably.

A regular feature of our Multi-Racial Madness pages are stories of economic enterprise and successful business enterprises by members of Britain's ever growing ethnic minorities.

Once again Broadsword is able to bring another story of immigrant entrepreneurs, those non-British business builders, who, according to the Home Secretary, are essential to Britain's economic growth.

Sarwan Deo came to Britain from India in the 1980's and settled in the Handsworth area of Birmingham. Through his hard work and no-nonsense business skills, over a ten year period Sarwan Deo made over £50 million in the printing and import trade.

Unfortunately Sarwan Deo was printing forged documents and passports and importing illegal immigrants into Britain.

In November 2003, at Harrow Crown Court Sarwan Deo was sentenced to a mere seven and a half years in prison for his business venture, together with his brother Sucha – a resident of Chadwell Heath, east London; His business associates Povytar Rai of Ladywood, Birmingham, Sohan Kalyan of Bedford and Jarnail Saini, an Indian businessman resident in Germany.

The prosecution believed that at least 6,200 illegal immigrants had been 'imported' by Deo's business network. Sarwan Deo was said to have developed a network of "dishonest African immigration officials and Indian diplomats, with a possible corrupt connection in the British Embassy in Ethiopia."

The Crown Prosecution Service also drew attention to Deo's connections with "unorthodox practices at the Indian Consulate General in Birmingham".

Nevertheless, a highly successful Asian businessman who in just ten years in Britain made over £50 million from the opportunities his new life in the UK offered him.

So that is how the immigrants contribute to the British economy and continue to enrich our culture.

HOW MANY NON-WHITES ARE THERE IN BRITAIN?

Does anyone really know? Given that there are no reliable figures for the numbers of illegal immigrants entering the UK and that Government figures for the numbers of non-Whites in the UK population are based purely on census returns, which are only a 'best guess' with a wide margin of error. Many immigrant and asylum-seeker support organisations deliberately conceal the true numbers of non-Europeans and non-whites within the UK and persistently deny that there is any kind of problem.

However some figures are available and give an approximate figure on the scale of the problem facing British National Socialists and those British Nationalist organisations currently trying to stop the rot....

- There are an estimated TWO MILLION MUSLIMS in Britain, which makes about 4% of the total UK population.
- The largest group of Muslims in Britain are Pakistani or Pakistani descent, officially over 600,000, Bangladeshis over 200,000, Indian Muslims 150,000, Turkish Muslims around 100,000. There are no reliable figures for Arabs, Sub-Saharan Africans, Albanians, Kosovans etc.
- There are more than 800 Mosques in the UK and 1,000 Muslim organisations.
- The main centres for the Muslim population in the UK are London – about 1 Million, Birmingham – 150,000, Bradford – 84,000, Leicester – 35,000, and Oldham – 25,000.

Deportation of Kenyan Rapist Overturned.

November 31st 2003 – Convicted rapist Joel Naitamu won his right to stay in Britain when immigration adjudicator Jeremy Gibb overruled the Home Office deportation order against Naitamu. In 1996 Joel Naitamu was jailed at the Old Bailey for 14 years on three counts of rape, one of abduction and false imprisonment. At the time his victim was assured that Naitamu would be deported on his release. But on appeal he has won the right to remain in Britain as a refugee because to deport him would be against his human rights.

Joel Naitamu now lives in east London safe from deportation.

Lord Chief Justice Lord Woolf overturns a Rastafarian's drink driving ban.

November 26th 2003 – The London Evening Standard reported the amazing story of Rastafarian Michael Joseph who had previously received a 3 year driving ban and a fine for drink driving.

The High Court cleared Joseph of the charges after his appeal solicitor convinced the Court that as a Rastafarian Michael Joseph had refused to give the police a blood sample as being against his religion. He was then charged with refusing a blood alcohol test.

(Strict Rastafarians prohibit the drinking of alcohol but Michael Joseph appears to have ignored that tenet of his beliefs)

The Lord Woolf supported Joseph's stance that he refused to take the blood test on religious grounds and the police should have offered him the option of a urine test instead of prosecuting him for the refusal.

Rasta Michael Joseph declared his intention to sue the police and said, "They called me over because I was a black man with dreadlocks in a red BMW. They showed me no respect."

Persecution of German Nationalists and the State Oppression of German National Socialism continues.

The German Nationalist band 'Landser' are the latest victims of state repression which seeks to crush any signs of German Nationalism or pro-National Socialist expression.

The prosecution and jailing of three members of the band 'Landser' by a German court is just the latest element in a nationwide offensive against the so-called 'Far-right' in Germany which was launched in February 2001 by the German Government Minister Christine Bergmann. The state's campaign against Germany's Nationalists was directly funded by the Bundestag with an initial cash injection of 65 million marks. Money was poured into dozens of 'anti-racist' projects and anti-Nationalist propaganda; special targets were the state's attempts to ban the NPD despite the NPD being a totally legal political party which stands candidates in elections across Germany, and the government's successful banning of the German division of Blood & Honour. In a desperate attempt to counter the appeal of Nationalism and National Socialism to young people in Germany the government launched the incredibly long-winded slogan – "Youth for Tolerance and Democracy – Against Right-wing Extremism, Xenophobia and Anti-Semitism." (Wow! Try saying that after a few steins of beer)

Now three years on, the German Government's campaign shows no signs of losing steam and even more government cash is being pumped into 'anti-racist' initiatives.

More and more desperate attempts are made to crush Nationalist and NS resistance with every measure available to the German state. Even more long-winded and pompously titled organisations and events are promoted at tremendous expense –

"International Day on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination".

Yet still the fighting spirit of German Nationalism and the Werewolf spirit of the German NS underground shines through; On the weekend of January 10th/11th – German Nationalists demonstrated on the streets of Berlin in support of 'Landser' and protested against the persecution of White Power music in Germany and the banning of the German section of the Blood & Honour music organisation.

Man charged in Nazi Dog Case

A man has been charged with breaching Germany's strict anti-Nazi laws by allegedly training his dog to give a raised arm Hitler salute.

The police questioned the 54 year old dog owner from Lichtenrade in Berlin after residents from his local area complained that they had seen the two of them saluting together.

The dog, a German Shepherd cross breed named Adolf in honour of the Fuhrer, has also said to have performed the trick in front of two policemen.

Nazi symbols, gestures, words or actions that can be interpreted as condoning Nazism is illegal in Germany.

A German newspaper, Bild, showed the man with a Hitler style tooth brush moustache. The man, named only as Roland T, has been accused of shouting Nazi slogans and wearing a T-shirt with an image of Adolf Hitler.

The court will have to decide if he is mentally responsible for his actions. A member of a Berlin animal welfare group, Carla Ruff, stated that there was nothing out of the ordinary about Adolf's behaviour. She went on to say to Berliner Kurier newspaper "Raising a paw is something they are born to do" and added that a dog can be trained to carry out almost anything the master wanted.

GREECE

The Nationalist Italian political party the National Alliance has declared its intention to restore a rock face sculpture of Benito Mussolini at the Furlo Gorge, near Urbino.

The carved portrait of Il Duce was originally sculpted in 1936 and once dominated the skyline of the gorge. However in 1945 Communist partisans attacked the feature with explosives and damaged most of the centre of the face. Since then successive Italian governments have allowed trees and bushes to disguise the site, until now. Now the National Alliance want the vegetation cleared away and a full restoration made to the rock relief.

Broadsword will report on any progress made in this piece of cultural restoration.

Hitler Wine Inflames Feeling Between Italy and Germany

An Italian wine merchant is doing a thriving trade in wines labelled with pictures of Adolf Hitler, threatening another Italian - German rift. The bottles have been selling fast, some of which labelled with the logo "Ein Volk, Ein Reich, Ein Fuhrer" (one people, one nation, one leader), the majority of them go to German tourists who spot them in petrol stations in northern Italy. The "historical series" features other leaders such as Mussolini, Stalin and Che Guevara, a Hitler or Stalin bottle selling for around £2.60. Brigitte Zypries, Germany's justice minister, has protested to her Italian counterpart, Roberto Castelli, but no action has been taken by Italy.

Allesandro Lunardelli says "People like these characters, they make good table conversation, so I'm not about to stop selling them" he also adds that the Hitler wine is the most popular and sells over 30,000 bottles in one year. Lunardelli goes on to say "I am sorry if there are any groups such as German politicians, Jewish groups or that type of thing, who get upset, but it's just history and I see no reason for such a fuss!"

In Italy you can buy Mussolini calendars of tapes of his speeches and they are sold alongside children's toys, but in Germany any use of Nazi or racist symbols or actions are banned. Mr. Lunardelli has been warned that he may face prosecution by a German prosecutor if he has sold any bottle to Germans over the internet. "I could make a fortune if I responded to all the orders I get off Germans requesting the wine, but I know that would be against German Law" and the junior tourism minister calling German tourists "super-nationalistic blonds"

The debate adds to the strain imposed on Italy-German relations by the Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi, comparing a German MEP to a concentration camp

Although Berlin wants a European ban on racist or anti-foreigner imagery and literature, Mr. Castelli said that only the Italian judiciary could decide to ban the wine. "I did not know these bottles were being produced" he said "It seems in bad taste to me"

Back in Broadsword No.24 we reported that racial violence had surfaced on the streets of Ulster as increasing numbers of non-whites were filtering into Northern Ireland and setting up 'ethnic minority' communities and enclaves in a region of Britain that the coloured immigrants had always previously avoided. Then after the Good Friday Agreement, when it appeared that sectarian violence had ended, almost overnight the streets of Belfast and elsewhere in Ulster began to experience what English towns like Oldham, Rochdale and Bradford had experienced back in the early 1960's as the first advance parties of non-whites began to arrive and set up homes.

Now in the closing months of 2003 and the New Year of 2004, the national news media are carrying stories about violent attacks on non-whites living in Ulster.

The hysterical tone of the liberal press says it all,

"Northern Ireland, which is 99% white, is fast becoming the race-hate capital of Europe. It holds the UK's record for the highest rate of racist attacks."

And even more dramatic...

"Protestant working-class neighbourhoods are showing a pattern of orchestrated house attacks aimed at 'ethnically cleansing'"

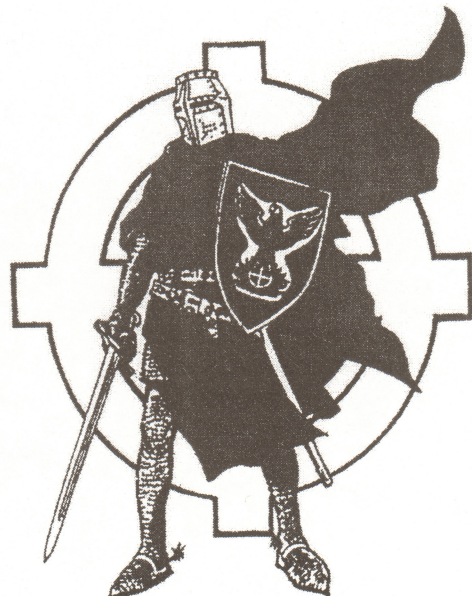

The Latest opinion polls show that in Britain - FOUR OUT OF TEN WHITE PEOPLE do not want a black or Asian neighbour. Despite all the propaganda and all the millions of pounds of taxpayers money which has been poured into multi-cultural brain-washing and the race relations industry over four decades, the White British are not lost yet! Predictably the Commission for Racial Equality is less than happy about this.

All this

multiwringing is

handful of violent incidents involving a few immigrants or asylum-seekers. Most of the incidents appear to involve assorted Chinese families; the Chinese were the first non-white immigrants into Ulster, first arriving in the 1960's to set up takeaways and restaurants. Now attacks have focussed both on the 'established' Chinese and newer arrivals, Pakistanis and Ugandan and Romanian Gypsy asylum-seekers.

The multi-culturalists are panicking because the people of Ulster are reacting immediately to the arrival of uninvited non-white immigrants in their 99% White communities. Ulster does not have the decades of anti-racist legislation that have subdued the rest of the UK and the multi-culturalists are terrified that their plans for a multi-racial Ulster will not be as easy to achieve as their creeping takeover of the British mainland.

Broadsword watches developments in Ulster with interest, is the tide beginning to turn against the multi-racial tidal-wave at last?

"Ethnically Ambiguous"

Every few years the race-mixers and multi-culturalists dream up a new approach to accelerate their ideologically driven dream of a 'One World – One Race' future.

Way back in the 1960's their motivation was 'Integration' and the slogan on the streets was "One Race – The Human Race".

World wide the extreme-Left and their liberal henchmen fought in the name of racial integration, spearheaded by political figures like Martin Luther King and heavily promoted in both popular culture and popular music. The concept of the 'Melting-Pot' where all races merged to produce a planet of 'coffee-coloured people' was the Marxist dream and much celebrated in 1960's Britain in a dreadful pop song called "Melting Pot" which was a massively promoted hit for a one-hit-wonder group called Blue Mink. Their musical success was marginal to the intended impact of the ideological message behind their crass, bubble-gum lyrics.

In the 1970's the political and electoral pretensions of the National Front prompted a massive counter-attack by the Left and the liberals in Britain who pumped millions of pounds worth of cash and resources into the promotion of racial-integration and it is no surprise that the Communist Party plastered the streets of the UK with stickers carrying the slogan "One Race – The Human Race – Unite to Defeat Racism!"

As time passed, the Left drifted away from the idea of integration as it became obvious that most of the non-whites settling in Britain had no intention of integrating and were establishing separate ethnic communities of their own. The race-mixers realised that their dream of a nation of totally racially mixed mongrels was going to take generations to become reality and they could not afford to upset their allies in the inner city ghettos. So the emphasis switched from integration to a multi-cultural and multi-racial society, and as always the race-mixers were quick to invent new words to reflect the new 'politically-correct' way of describing the situation.

Immigrants were no longer called immigrants, but became "ethnic minorities"; the old classification of half-caste was dropped for "mixed-race"; West Indian became "Afro-Caribbean" and later still "African-Caribbean"; Indian, Pakistani or Bengali was dropped for

"South-Asian origin".

Now the race-mixers are seeking to promote a new concept riding on the back of 'main-stream' popular culture and entertainment, the idea of a generation who are "ethnically ambiguous", neither black, white nor yellow – integration under a new label is back on the agenda.

The media will of course push the idea of 'ethnic ambiguity' at every opportunity and hails as its heroes entertainers like Christina Aguilera, Beyonce, and the golfer Tiger Woods. Laughably they claim that footballer David Beckham is really a "black man trapped in a white body" because of his pursuit of fashion styles and attraction to pop culture. Behind the ridiculous statement lies a sinister and very manipulative intent; if enough white British youngsters can be sold on that idea, that identity and culture are interchangeable and that it is better for white people to adopt black culture, then a major blow can be struck against 'racism' and those evil white people who want to remain separate with a 100% White racial identity.

"A New Name for an Old Problem"

"Ethnically Ambiguous" will be the new slogan for the old evil – consider this quotation from Trevor Phillips, head of the Commission for Racial Equality,

"I want to bring the word integration back into fashion because I think it is what is going on already. Public bodies need to catch up with real life and work out how to take things even further forward."

As head of the CRE and a close friend of Prime Minister Tony Blair, Trevor Phillips has massive influence and plenty of resources to drive his ideas forward.

All British National Socialists and racial-Nationalists should heed this warning from the horse's mouth – the head of the Commission for Racial Equality likes the idea of the "Ethnically Ambiguous" and wants to "take things even further forward."

We cannot ignore this or the new face of the old evil.

Our Ancestors

Religious and Spiritual Beliefs In the Iron Age

As stated in previous parts of this historical series, the Celtic peoples of Britain and Ireland were closely related in language, customs and social organisation. There was little to distinguish the Irish Celts and British Celts in terms of language, it was said that a Briton from Cornwall (Kernow) could walk to what is now Edinburgh and speak the same language to the tribes there as he could to those in Wales or Ireland. Indeed, there was little to separate the British Celts from those in mainland Europe, much more was shared in common than separated them.

The greatest shared facet of Celtic life however was their religious and spiritual beliefs, a belief system rooted in the worship of nature and natural forces and embodied in their priesthood the Druids.

THE DRUIDS – THE ORIGINAL WHITE BROTHERHOOD.

In Celtic society the Druids wielded tremendous power, not only were they the keepers of the religious beliefs, mysteries and rituals, but they were also the source of tribal law and the final word in matters of justice, territorial disputes and matters of royal protocol. The Druids were the guardians of the sacred places and the oral histories of the tribes and royal households. Not until very late in the Iron Age did the Celts begin to develop a system of writing, the mysterious Ogham Script, until then all the poetry, songs, rituals and Druidic Lore was passed down by word of mouth.

It is because the Druids and their secrets were holders of an oral tradition that so little is now known about this long vanished but powerful priesthood. The modern day 'Druids' who gather for the cameras at Stonehenge and parody druidic rituals at the are not the inheritors of the long lost Celtic religious masters, but are the product of a highly inventive 18th Century imagination.

The Celts had a complex belief system which divided the supernatural world into the powers of life and death, the powers of light and darkness, the powers of the heavens and the powers of the Underworld. Their religious festivals and rituals were focussed on the passage of the seasons, the Winter and Summer Solstice, the harvest and the fertility of their livestock and crops. There were sacred groves, sacred trees, standing stones, sacred lakes and pools, sacred springs and mountains, Nature was venerated and feared. The ordinary people turned to the Druids for explanations of the supernatural and to be their go-betweens when dealing with the gods, the spirits of the sacred places and communicating with the dead.

In Britain the Druids stronghold and spiritual centre was the Isle of Anglesey (Ynys Mons). It was there, surrounded by sea that the Druids studied the long years of apprenticeship and guarded their sacred groves of oak trees, cultivated mistletoe for their most important rituals and carried out sacrifices at their sacred lakes.

The Romans recognised the power and influence of the Druids and it was the Romans who realised that to totally subdue the Britons it was necessary to destroy their spiritual life and remove their priesthood.

Without their spiritual life and indigenous belief system the independent spirit of the Celts would wither and die and the British tribes would submit to Roman rule. The great Roman commander Suetonius Paulinus led a major military campaign against the Druids and in AD 61 invaded Anglesey to destroy the Druids and their sacred sites. The destruction and massacres on Anglesey broke the Druids and although individual Druids must have survived in remote parts of Britain, their influence waned and the Romans worked hard to replace the Celts religious beliefs and practices initially with Roman gods and festivals, but much later with the new religion of the Roman Empire, Christianity.

* In the next issue of this series Our Ancestors will look closely at Celtic religion and their myths and legends.

Taliesin—the great Celtic Bard

Taliesin was the legendary bard and warrior-poet of early Celtic folklore and Arthurian legends. It is also suggested by some sources that Taliesin had once been a druid or had trained to be a druid— ancient records suggest that to become a druid meant years of study and apprenticeship under the tutorage of an elder druid. Since bards and poets often recited stories and tribal histories, and druids were the traditional keepers of the oral histories of their people, this combination of roles is not unlikely. Note: Bedd Taliesin is reputed to be the burial site of the great bard. The remains of the burial chamber can be found on the slopes of Moel-y-Garn, near Talybont in Dyfed. In the mid-19th Century a Christian group attempted to excavate the burial mound in order to remove Taliesin's bones from the pagan site for a Christian burial. However, while the work was underway, a terrible thunderstorm erupted which drove the terrified diggers from the mountain side begging forgiveness. Taliesin has remained undisturbed ever since.

GAY PORN ON THE RATES

Are your Council Taxes Paying for these Invitations to Perversion?

In the preparation of this article, the editorial team at Broadsword has been in the unfortunate position of having to read through half a dozen, glossy, expensively produced booklets on overt Homosexual Sex – all printed and published with tax-payers money. These booklets were removed from a local authority/council office in the South-East of England by a

BM supporter who passed them on to Broadsword in the hope that the general public can be made aware that their taxes are being used to promote homosexual sex and that politically correct Left-wing councils are pouring public money into publications that border on the pornographic.

One graphically illustrated publication called "Condoms. Everything a gay man needs to know" is a glossy pocket-sized 52 page guide to all forms of physical homosexual sex. Illustrated with full colour, close up photographs it explains in graphic detail how gay men can use condoms while engaging in a whole range of sexual acts, all of which would have been illegal in the 1950's.

Many of the captions are versed in the most obscene terms and Broadsword will not quote some of the worst, but here is a sample of some of the milder 'advice'...

"Safer sex on drink and drugs" "Many drugs make you feel less pain, so you may be more sexually aggressive" "Hot clubs and drugs dry you out – including your arse" "Fisting, dildos and douching"... "If you share sex-toys...."

That helpful little volume was paid for by the Camden Primary Care Trust in collaboration with the London Gay Men's HIV Prevention Partnership.

No doubt Camden Primary Care Trust also complains that it has not enough money to fund hip-replacement operations for pensioners and has not enough hospital beds for emergencies.

Other enlightening titles include, "Agreements in Relationships. The essential guide for gay men in relationships who want to stop using condoms when they have sex with each other." A handy 34 page glossy pocket guide published by Camden & Islington Community Health Services, paid for by the local tax-payers.

Yet another helpful little publication paid for by the council-tax payers of Islington & Camden, distributed through the Health Promotion Service at St. Pancras Hospital is, "Chatblack Update. The sexual health booklet for black gay men."

This 34 page glossy offers such comforting thoughts as, "Black gay men have a great deal to offer the gay scene and we must support each other in order to achieve true equality."

Finally from the North of England comes this handy little booklet produced at great expense by the Centre for HIV & Sexual Health in Sheffield,

"Internet Liaisons. A practical guide to safer cruising on the net – for men looking for sex with men."

No, we have not made that last one up, that is the title of a genuine, 'Health Promotion' booklet produced with public money in Sheffield. This booklet also offers advice on how a computer user can erase evidence of his internet activities from the PC memory – handy we suppose if the gay man is also a bit of a paedophile child-porn viewer as well.

Other politically correct organisations receiving tax-payers money are; The Gay and Lesbian Foundation received a government grant of £48,000 in 2002, it offers special counselling services to homosexuals; its support group "Icebreakers" exists to help 'gay men' "cope with the stress of coming out". The GLF also runs a bizarre service which, "inner enigma self-help group for pre- and post-operative transsexuals". The wages for the 'workers' in these services being part funded by tax-payers money, both from central government and local authorities, such as the £46,000 grant which went to the Project of Advocacy, Counselling and Education, an organisation which offers support to lesbian groups and gay HIV sufferers.

Always good to know that when regular Health Service departments and hospitals are desperate for money, the liberal and left-wing politicians who distribute the funds are siphoning off thousands of pounds of taxes into the publications and organisations listed above.

Needless to say, but a British Movement government would put a stop to this madness immediately and those behind the 'Gay Porn on the Rates' would be made to pay for their corruption of our society.

AFRICA - Wisdom Of A Lifetime

"I have given my life to try to alleviate the sufferings of Africa; but there is something that all white men who have lived there must know: that these individuals (the Africans) are a sub-race. They have neither the intellectual, mental or emotional abilities to equate or share equally with White men in any of the functions of our civilisation.... For whenever a White man seeks to live amongst them as their equal they will either destroy him or devour him and they will destroy all of his work.

Let any White man who would come to help Africa remember that he must continually retain his status - you the master, and they the inferiors, like children you would help to teach. Never fraternise with them as equals. Never accept them as your social equals or they will devour you, they will destroy you"

Note: In the early and middle years of the 20th century Dr.Schweitzer ran hospitals and clinics in the heart of Africa - often the only White man for hundreds of miles. Albert Schweitzer knew the African, heart and soul.

THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST Press UK

The British National Socialist Movement is working towards the creation of an independent printing works and National Socialist press in the British Isles.

The regular news media of television, radio and national newspapers can never be relied upon to give a fair and representative portrayal of National Socialism. Nor will the media ever give a National Socialist perspective to news stories, so as a movement we must create our own alternative media.

The spreading of the National Socialist message and the production of NS literature is generally hampered by the lack of a central printing facility, production studio and design workshops.

The British Movement intends to change the situation and has set up an appeal to raise the necessary funds. Target figures have been set and fund raising is underway. Support publication of NS literature and help to build the National Socialist Press UK!!

INSIDE THE MIND OF A ZIONIST

(Quoted from The Electronic Watch on Zion Issue No.4, December 2003).

The following extract has been taken from a recent bulletin published by former National Front National Activities Organiser Martin Webster.

The situation described by Martin Webster took place in the mid-1970s and is centred around an across the table meeting in a café in Holborn, London between Webster and the Chief Reporter of the Jewish Chronicle Gerald Smith. During the exchange of information and subsequent conversation, the Jewish reporter made clear his hostility to the NF and explained how and why the Zionists in the UK would never tolerate an effective Nationalist movement in British politics.

This is what the reporter said to Martin Webster,

"I expect you think you have won for the NF a few 'Brownie points' by telling me this, don't you? You would be quite wrong to think that this will alter our attitude, that is, the attitude of the Jewish community – to the NF.

You claim the NF is not anti-semitic, that it has no anti-semitic policies and does not deny membership to Jews – but we are not fooled.

Even if you could demonstrate that the NF had no anti-Jewish policies; even if WE believed that YOU genuinely believed that not only were you not anti-Jewish but that you were positively pro-Jewish, we would still fight you to the death.

Why? Because even though we encourage Jews living in the Diaspora to go to Israel, we know that most will not do so. Furthermore, having strong Jewish communities in powerful lands throughout the Diaspora is beneficial to Israel. Jewish communities render to Israel essential financial and political support.

Jewish communities in the Diaspora thrive best in liberal, cosmopolitan societies. We do not like to cast too high a profile.

In a society such as Britain that is developing with West Indians, Asian and other non-European immigrant communities, we do not appear to the native British to be especially alien.

Your party is agitating to stop coloured immigration and to instigate the repatriation of these people. If you were to be successful in achieving widespread support among the British public for your policies, you would do so by means of making them racist in outlook.

This racist outlook could not be switched off like a light once you had deported the coloured people.

That outlook would remain – and in such a situation we Jews would suddenly stick out like sore thumbs as aliens in a way that we do not do now. We would face an inevitable pogrom.

So we have to fight you and crush you now, before you can create such a situation."

Broadsword invites its readers to form their own opinions on the contents of this extract and whether or not it reflects the true situation. However for those who have been in the struggle for many years, it has a certain familiarity.

* Note for overseas readers and new-comers to British Nationalist politics: Martin Webster was a leading figure in the National Front Directorate during the 1970s and rose to prominence as National Activities Organiser. After the disintegration of the NF in the early 1980s Mr. Webster dropped out of mainstream Nationalist political activity.

An Introduction

Readers of the Blood & Honour magazine will, for a number of years now, be familiar with the politically incorrect and alternative views contained within the column.

As a National Socialist not prepared to hide or even condemn my true beliefs, there is no home for me in the British National Party. I do though wish them well in their electioneering, a path sure to attract other patriots who may one day filter through to us in British Movement.

British Movement, a strong bulwark within the Blood & Honour (Worldwide) umbrella, is joined at gigs and gatherings by other N.S. skinhead, biker clubs, third positionists, odinists and political parties. In recent years, the personal differences have been eclipsed by us all networking together to build a web that will one day expand to all areas.

My main comment to 'would-be' recruits is that if you are half-hearted and give up easily, don't waste yours and our time. Leaving is for losers! We must never give up, no matter how isolated we feel, no matter how hopelessly distant victory may seem.

The Soviet Empire collapsed over night, who would have believed that? One day the rulers of the West, the European Union will see their empire collapse.

We are right, we will win one day because our cause is just. Read on

DAVID IRVING SPEAKS

The renowned historian accept an invitation during his promotional tour of Hungary to address a M.I.E.P. rally at Heroes Square in Budapest, to mark the anniversary of the uprising of 1956. M.I.E.P. or the Hungarian Life and Justice Party, a legal and registered political party has only recently lost its parliamentary representation, falling below the 5% threshold necessary, in an election largely believed to have been gerrymandered to exclude the patriotic voice of the people from the main stage of public life (surprise, surprise!).

The Zionist media imposed a near 100% news blackout on the gathering on the 23rd October 2003, that saw over 10,000 patriots listening to David Irving, and Jean Marie Le Pen who had interpreters to rally the crowd. Recorded for a private T.V. channel, the launch of Mr Irving's Hungarian language book "Uprising" will stir the embers of fading memories.

"Uprising" 1956 Hungarian Style

David Irving on tour 21-28 October, he spoke in the big cities of Budapest, Miskolc, Gyors, Debrecen, Szeged and Pecs. Inveterate and indomitable historical researcher Mr Irving, is not interested in political correctness. He spoke of his famous biography of Adolf Hitler doctor, his secretaries, the S.S. man who burned his body and the children of important 3rd Reich military and political figures. Mr Irving's impeccable fluency in the German language proved invaluable.

Particularly I remember his discovery that when Germany attacked the Soviets (pre-empting a Soviet attack on the German Reich) Hitler ordered that the Russian Embassy in Paris be searched. Reich investigators found a torture changer and crematorium, strange finds indeed in an Embassy!

Concerning the Hungarian uprising of 1956, Mr Irving visited Hungary a few times during the communist era, provided with a n official translator, he later found the translations had been deliberately distorted. The authors movement and activity in the country was increasingly restricted, he feared that anytime his investigations would be brought to an end.

Ironically, the book was published in 1981 in Germany, England, France and Italy, the United States publishers cancelled it and in Hungary publication was delayed....Now in 2003 is a guest of Gede Testrerek (brothers) Publishing House, his hosts have finally made the decision to release the book where it all happened.

Typical of David Irving's meetings was the one in Budapest, approximately 150 in attendance, mostly veterans of 1956 but also 25 younger people.

Mr Irving's forthrightness typically invoked the wrath of the media. His discussion of the anti-Semitic roots of the uprising in the early days, the apparently Jewish led communist government and the secret police. The students and workers that led the revolt were not, he says, following the intellectuals as others have mis-reported.

When the only rightist T.V. programme showed a few minutes of David Irving, the rest of the media started disparaging him as a fool and liar. The T.V. station banned Hungary's only rightist programme, one hour on a Sunday evening called "Plus 1", the following Sunday he was due to speak on the Holohoax. Thousands of protestors went on the streets, first week in November demanding that the people be allowed to see Irving, to have their programme "Plus 1" back, to no avail.

Mr Irving now I think is aged 67, a brilliant historian and brave man. How anyone can fill his shoes, I don't know. If we can only learn and digest a fraction of his truth inspired research it would go miles to counter the codswallop being touted to today's generation by the liars and twisters of the Establishment.

H.M. Government Warning: - Those who seek the truth will be unpopular!
Revisionist Warning: - Most people may be sheep, we are the shepherds!

The first casualty of war is the truth. The propaganda by each side to demonise the enemy is meant to spur the nation on to victory. The big difference with the Second World War is that the real truth has been largely hidden by allied victors and indeed it is a criminal offence in many countries to even whisper an attempt to dispel myths that are increasingly taught in schools as facts. Many historical truth finders, known as revisionists are at present in prison, especially in Germany, France and Canada, supposed democracies!

The holocaust myth was not a part of wartime propaganda and was only invested in the late 1940's to instil a sense of guilt and pity for the Jews, who were by now stealing Palestine from it's rightful owners, the Palestinians.

The massive Nazi victory in the 1933 elections was the start of a resurgence of the nation. Those few that owned and controlled so much of the German Nation were now to find their ill-gotten gains redistributed, usury, the lending of money (at extorted rates) by those that cannot be criticised was stopped.

The basic truth is that those German Jews that were not communists, trade union saboteurs, idle or agitators and who went about their honest business without malice to the state were generally left alone.

The damage and destruction done by murderous allied bombing raids actually destroyed the Jewish school in Berlin. When will the war criminals of British Bomber command be indicted?

ISRAEL: TRAINING AMERICAN ASSASSINS

Israel is Training American Assassination Squads for Operations in Iraq and Elsewhere. The 'ZOG Forces' of American White Supremacist Fiction are now Reality.

Whenever the American fictional novels The Turner Diaries, or The Hunter, or The Serpents Walk are discussed by mainstream journalists or academics, they are always quick to denounce the book's plotlines about Zionist controlled Special Forces operating in the USA as the rabid outpourings of an anti-semitic imagination.

But now the truth is out and the fiction of the Turner Diaries and The Serpents Walk has been realised. In an amazing admission by sources in the Pentagon, it was admitted that Israeli advisers are helping to train US Special Forces for counter-insurgency operations in Iraq and other areas of the world, principally Afghanistan, but possibly elsewhere in the future.

The Israeli Defence Force (IDF) has already established a training unit in the USA at Fort Bragg in North Carolina. The US military has admitted that Israeli 'military consultants' have been sent into Iraq to 'advise' US Special Forces in the Sunni Triangle. The Israelis are teaching the Americans the tactics that Israeli forces use against Palestinian guerrilla forces in the Occupied Palestinian territories. In December 2003 an American military spokesman admitted that American Special forces, trained by the Israelis were already operating in Syria, supposedly to intercept non-Iraqi jihad fighters before they could cross into Iraq. The Americans admitted that, "This is basically an assassination programme. That is what is being conceptualised here. This is a hunter-killer team."

Israeli military sources admit that the IDF regularly shares information on its operations in Gaza and the Palestinian territories with the US military, "When we do activities, the US military attaches in Tel Aviv are interested."

If the Americans are prepared to let the Israelis train their military units on American bases in the USA and in Iraq, how long will it be before Israeli officers are commanding American units in the field? Or is that already happening in Iraq?

Why are American Special Forces operating in Syria? Are those forces operating under Israeli orders? After all those forces have included Israeli 'consultants' and Israel has a definite interest in becoming involved in Syria. Or more to the point – in The Turner Diaries and The Serpents Walk, Israeli forces operate in the USA against so-called 'Far-Right' targets. How long before this piece of fiction becomes reality?

Or perhaps it already has?

VIXENS

Here we are, well into another new year now, and Spring, fast approaching, heralds the usual celebrations of new life, regrowth and the longer days of the Summer months to come, and on our BMW D page in this issue of the Broadsword, we are also heralding new life and regrowth with the imminent launch of our new magazine, The Vixens.

The Vixens will be based upon an entirely different concept to the Broadsword, although beneath the same umbrella of National Socialist ideology. Our magazine will be focussed almost entirely upon family issues, but those which spread out from between the walls of each National Socialist household and forge links that will pull together the National Family as a fully fledged working community. The magazine will be fundamental in its efforts to encourage National Socialist women to proudly retake their place as the centre point of the family home, and therefore as a natural progression, as the centre point of our National Family Community. It is imperative that we begin to ignore the incorrect social structure that surrounds our people and begin to concentrate on working together as a tight knit National Socialist Family Community, centralised and focussed upon our own needs and issues. We will move towards working within our own framework of mechanics which separates us from what is outside our Community and shuts that firmly out!

Our ideology is unique in that it is folk-based, and therefore The Vixens magazine delves deeply into the issues that create an entirely different and unique social structure as a result. Not only does it illuminate our history and folklore by reminding our readers of those days that we need to celebrate to bring rebirth to our old traditions and rekindle that which is part of our heritage, but it explores the routes that take the reader onto pathways of alternative thinking and therefore alternative action, which can only redirect our National Socialist Family Community into a mind-pattern of pure thinking. Without purity of thought, purity of race cannot follow, and The Vixens aims solidly to help our womenfolk to move into an area which creates an atmosphere of healthy living and which can therefore only result in healthier individuals. A healthy National Socialist Family Community is a slap in the eye for our enemies!

May we then wish you good tidings for the coming Spring, and hope that with every bud and flower you see burst open into the sun, you may think of the ancestors of our people through whose blood and bones the earth flourishes in new growth each year and which makes our lands so beautiful.

BUILDING AN N.S. FUTURE

In keeping with the spirit of the British Movement strategy 'Project 2005' across this year, 2004, British Movement intends to introduce a whole series of events to signal the renaissance of National Socialism in Britain. The British National Socialist Movement intends to create an active calendar of events, based on NS traditions established in Europe during the 1920's and 1930's and rooted in a much older Aryan folk tradition. These events will build around small family based celebrations and social gatherings but, it is hoped will gather in popularity and frequency amongst the folk of our Movement and across our network.

An Alternative Calendar For the National Socialist Year.
As part of British Movement's drive to create an alternative Calendar for British National Socialists, Broadsword invites its readers to submit suggestions for dates and events for inclusion in the future listing of annual events and celebrations.

Our celebrations have to reflect our ideology, they must be simple, clear and to the point. Only then can we fully understand and appreciate them and only then will they give us inner strength.

Our celebrations should be carried along by the comradeship, the participation and the sense of belonging of all concerned.

We are happiest when we receive new vigour and willpower from such an hour of celebration.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Broadsword,

I am writing about the incident that resulted in my brain bleeding. The incident happened in early May, I went to Rochdale Hospital to have an x-ray on my leg, as usual I was waiting for hours. Eventually they x-rayed my leg and told me what they thought was wrong. I left the hospital and went to the main shopping street in Rochdale. I had a browse around and then made my way to catch the bus on Whitworth Road Rochdale. As I walked through the area I was approached by two men. One asked me if I had a cigarette, I told them I hadn't got any. The two lads had drawn in faces, I personally thought they were drug addicts. Before I knew it I was knocked to the floor and they were kicking me in the head, ribs... anywhere they could. They took my mobile phone and still repeated kicking me, but thanks to a good Samaritan; someone rang an ambulance.

I must have been unconscious by the time the ambulance arrived and took me back to Rochdale Hospital where they stapled the back of my head together. Then the police arrived asking me for descriptions of the men. They told me that there was no chance of catching the men even though they have got CCTV all around Rochdale.

The hospital did not x-ray my head and sent me home in a taxi. Three weeks later I had three fits in two hours, followed by a seizure. I was then admitted to Burnley hospital where they discovered my brain was bleeding. They put me under observation for four weeks, but were in contact with the Royal Preston hospital where I have to go in late September for yet another scan, maybe even surgery if it has not cleared up.

The Labour Government promised they'd be tough on crime..... We all know that's a joke! All the over one cigarette ,what a sick society. Drug addicts mugging and beating people old and young to feed their addiction. The British Movement has got the right answers!

Dear National Secretary,

Many thanks for sending to me the very interesting Issue 26 of Broadsword which I am always pleased to see, and for your accompanying letter with its kind and much appreciated references to my bulletin and to my eventual autobiography.

With best wishes for the continued success of Broadsword.

To the Editor of Broadsword,

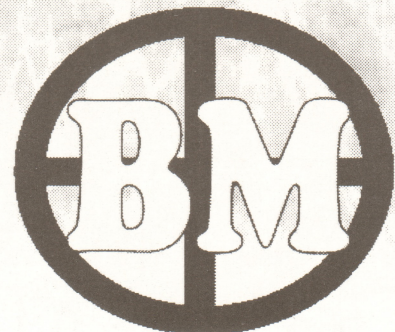

I could not believe it when the telephone votes came through on the BBC's debate on Asylum seekers.

The message of 'Enough is Enough' came through loud and clear! These were not votes from racists or dedicated National Socialists, but from Mr and Mrs. Joe Public of Great Britain.

Its about time this Government made the Asylum seeker situation a major issue so that it can be dealt with before it gets out of control.

Keep up the excellent work for Race and Nation
